

Impact is the opportunity to fundamentally transform the results you create with others.

THE Impact
TRAINING

Getting results?

Every day, you're with people—family, colleagues, co-workers, friends. Are you having the results you want with them? Impact helps you get clear about the experience you create when you're with others, then equips you to transform those results into something even better.

We're often reminded that "the only person you can control is yourself." Impact takes this seemingly limiting reality into unprecedented possibility by demonstrating that it only takes one person—YOU—to transform your relationships!

How does Impact work?

The four days are chock full of mini-lectures, experiential exercises, focused feedback, and direct interpersonal interaction. With the coaching and guidance of a master trainer, you and the other participants will have an opportunity to practice new ways of being with others, then decide if those new ways support you in being the leader/spouse/colleague/partner you wish you could be every day.
